Regina Coeli

Mozart's Regina Coeli, K. 276, is a Marian antiphon. Marian antiphons were written specifically to honor the Virgin Mary and have been sung since the thirteenth century. There are four Marian antiphons, one for each season of the year. The Regina Coeli, Latin for "Rejoice Queen of Heaven," is sung from Easter Sunday through the Friday after Pentecost in liturgical settings. Mozart composed three different settings to this text. All three settings were most likely written for use in the Salzburg cathedral.

This setting of the Regina Coeli is scored for four soloists and chorus. Each line is sung by either the chorus, the soloists, or some combination of the two, with a concluding Alleluia sung by the full chorus. The solo lines are integrated beautifully into the work as a whole.

This is an exuberant work. For years it was thought to have been composed in 1779 in Salzburg. The date is unclear because the autograph score was lost. It does bear similarities to works precisely dated from that year. However, it contains what seem to be quotations from Handel's Messiah. It is unlikely that Mozart had heard that work in 1779. We do know that he had heard it by 1789 when he re-orchestrated the Messiah.

I Am In Need of Music

The words of composer David L. Brunner:

"I was a student of David Nott's at Illinois Wesleyan University, so when asked to write a work in his memory, it was both an honor and a humbling experience. I remember him as a very tall man with a profound bass voice, an elegant conducting technique, a quick wit, and an engaging manner as a conductor and performer. He was an inspiration for me.

I have been attracted to Elizabeth Bishop's Sonnet for some time. It is one of those poems that seems to sing itself off the page. The phrases "I am in need of music that would flow over my fretful, feeling finger-tips;" "O for the healing swaying, old and low, of some song, sung to rest the tired dead;" "There is a magic made by melody;" and "Held in the arms of rhythm and of sleep" are intimate and comforting in their own rhythm. They seem appropriate words for the extended community of everyone who knew David and his work.

Sililiza

Jim Papoulis has a distinctive musical style that combines contemporary sounds with musical traditions from around the globe. Traveling worldwide, Papoulis works with international artists and ensembles in order to explore and create a sound for a global community. This multi-cultural sound has become the cornerstone of his works for choirs, orchestras, and ensembles.

Everywhere Papoulis travels, he actively immerses himself in the local music, instruments, and culture, gaining the ability to incorporate these diverse elements gracefully into his work. His choral compositions often seem to reflect the personal, inner perspectives of those who sing them, enabling Jim's music to create a bridge of honest feeling and inspiration between singer and listener.

Most of the text of Sililiza is Swahili, a Bantu language that serves as a national, or official language, of four nations: Tanzania, Kenya, Uganda and the Democratic Republic of the Congo. Papoulis's mother spoke Swahili (having lived in the Congo) and Jim used phrases of empowerment that he learned from her as the text for this piece. There are a few phrases in Spanish. Jim has lived in New York for many years, and this piece reflects a culture in which people from many places share the same spaces and speak more than one language.

Sililiza	Hear me
Kusikiliza	I listen
Pa Moja	Together
Sililiza Moyo	Hear my heart
I kusikia wewe	I hear you
Pa moja	Together
Katika moyo wako	In your heart
Ninan ja	I am hungry
Nina kiu	I am thirsty (for listening)
Mama	Mother
Baba	Father
I kusikia wewe	I hear you
Moja kwa moja	One by one
Yo soy muy fuerte	I am very strong
Yo me voy	If I lead
Echale un vistazo	Take a look at it
Soy fuerte	I am strong

Women's Chorale

Lift Thine Eyes

In the middle of the second part of Mendelssohn's Elijah, the prophet experiences a despair. In his famous aria "It Is Enough," Elijah seems to have lost all hope for mankind. Suddenly the voices of angels are heard singing, "Lift thine eyes to the mountains whence cometh help." This transformative moment in the Oratorio is the only purely acappella movement in the entire piece. The radiant sound of the voices of angels singing is enough to revive Elijah's spirits, as he then continues on his long journey.

Miserere

Eva Ugalde, born in 1973, is closely related to the world of the choir, both as a chorister and a composer. Eva Ugalde was born in San Sebastian where she later went on to study Musical Composition and Choir Direction with Gotzon Aulestia and Miguel Amantegi, respectively. Her work is principally centred on choral music and she has written several pieces for women's choirs. She is a member of the women's choir conducted by Javier Busto. Miserere was written in dedication to the victims of war.

Translation:

Have mercy upon me, O God.
I cry to Thee all day.
Because You Lord, sweet and meek
Have mercy upon me, O God.
Incline Thine ear Lord and hear me for
I am poor.
Amen.

La Vida

La Vida was written by Jim Papoulis. The text states that one should hear life as it goes.

Your world is formed in your heart.
All my dreams, all my hopes follow.
The rhythm of your heart and the rhythm of your soul.
Let them move you and feel the beat.

Now in its second century, the Ithaca College School of Music affirms its fundamental belief that music and the arts are essential components of the human experience. The School of Music prepares students to be world-class professionals and the music leaders of tomorrow - ready to transform individuals and communities by advancing the art of music.

Ithaca College School of Music

Ever since its founding in 1892 as a Conservatory of Music, Ithaca College has remained dedicated to attracting the most talented young musicians, and then immersing these students in an advanced culture of musical learning that positions them to be leading professionals in music. As the conservatory evolved into a comprehensive college with expanded academic offerings, the School of Music has continued to earn its reputation as one of the best in the nation.

Through a blend of world-class faculty, state-of-the-art facilities, professional performance opportunities, access to liberal arts classes, and a beautiful campus setting, students grow in a challenging yet supportive community.

Not only do students have access to our broad music curriculum, but they can also take classes in any of the College's other schools and divisions. As a result, graduates are well prepared for a host of careers and work in almost every music field imaginable. School of Music alumni include symphony, opera, and Broadway performers; faculty members and deans at prestigious universities and colleges; teachers in school systems through the country; music therapists, composers; publicists; audio engineers in professional studios; and managers in the music industry. The School of Music boasts a consistent 100% job placement for music education graduates actively seeking employment, and 98% placement for other graduates into jobs or graduate schools.

Since 1941, the Ithaca College School of Music has been accredited by the National Association of Schools of Music.
